THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 5.

AN UNPRETENDING PRIMA DONNA.—Miss Anna Louise Cary, the famous prima donna, is greatly admired by all who know her, and by the solid Maine farmers in the neighborhood of her northern home she is regarded with little less than adoration. On one occasion, when the fact that she was about to give her friends in the old Pine Tree State a visit had become generally known there, a well-to-do citizen, with much ado, scrubbed up the family carriage and was waiting at the depot with a rather stylish turnout for everyone, but to the proprietor of a seat in the pick-and-span phaeton she returned a pleasant, "Oh, I won't trouble you; it's only a little way, and I'll just run home across the pasture as I used to." And she did, with all the seeming joyousness of a school girl home on a vacation. —Boston Post.

MR. BECHER TALKING ABOUT WOMEN.—Speaking of Mary Magdalene's joy when the angel told her that the Lord has arisen, Mr. Becher said, in his sermon, Sunday:—"Who can understand the tropical whirlwind of a woman's soul when a dead love is about to have resurrection?" At the close of his evening's sermon he said:—"There is nothing for which I thank God more fervently than for the unwavering faith he has given me in the purity, the virtue, the honor of women. I have had it from my youth, and now, at the end of a long life, I can say that I have not lost a particle of that Christian trust. Therefore, when I hear young men yelping their impertinence, middle-aged men cynically criticizing, infirm old men mumbling their objections, I am utterly disgusted. My soul communes not with such men." —New York Sun.
